United States[®]
Census
2020

The Census Bureau today released the first results from the experimental Household Pulse Survey. The Household Pulse Survey is designed to collect real-time data on how people's lives have been impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic to inform federal and state response and recovery planning and to provide crucial weekly data to help understand the experiences of American households during the COVID-19 pandemic.

The results represent data collected between April 23 and May 12, 2020. The data are available through the Household Pulse Survey Interactive Tool, and in tables on the website. The first results show that many households have experienced loss in employment income, are concerned about food security, and have deferred decisions to access health care.

La Oficina del Censo publicó hoy los primeros resultados de la Encuesta experimental de Pulsos De los Hogares. La Encuesta de Pulso súbante está diseñada para recopilar datos en tiempo real sobre cómo la vida de las personas se ha visto afectada por la pandemia COVID-19 para informar la respuesta federal y estatal y la planificación de recuperación y proporcionar datos semanales cruciales para ayudar a entender las experiencias de los hogares estadounidenses durante la pandemia COVID-19.

Los resultados representan los datos recopilados entre el 23 de abril y el 12 de mayo de 2020. Los datos están disponibles a través de la Herramienta Interactiva de Encuesta de Pulso s/hogar,, en las entablas en el sitio web. Los primeros resultados muestran que muchos hogares han experimentado pérdida sin ingresos laborales, están preocupados por la seguridad alimentaria y han diferido las decisiones de acceder a la atención médica.
